"ENGELSİZMİR" KARIKATÜR YARIŞMASI ÖDÜL GECESSİ

Engelsiz yaşamın öncüsü olabilmek için yola çıkan İzmir Büyükşehir Belediyesi'nin, Engelsiz İzmir 2013 Uluslararası Kongresi kapsamında düzenlenen sanat yarışmalarında dereceye girenlere ödülleri törenle verildi.

Pınar ve DYO A.Ş. ana sponsorluğunda, Güzelyalı Rotary Kulübü ve Yaşar Üniversitesi işbirliği ile düzenlenen "Engelleri Kaldıralım" konulu karikatür, fotoğraf ve kısa film yarışmalarının ortak ödül töreni, Yaşar Üniversitesi Konferans Salonu'nda yapıldı.

Törende konuşan İzmir Büyükşehir Belediyesi Meclis Başkan Vekili Prof. Dr. Adnan Oğuz Akyarlı, etkinliğin farkındalık noktasında çok önem taşıdığını belirterek, "Güzel paydaşlarla başlayan Engelsiz İzmir 2013 Kongresi'nin başarıya ulaşmaması imkansız. Odaklandığımız konu engellilik. Kongrenin düzenlenmesinde emeği geçen herkese teşekkür ediyorum" dedi.

"Engelleri Kaldıralım" Uluslararası Karikatür Yarışması'nda şu çizerler ödül kazanmıştı: Birincilik Ödülü: İkhsan Dwiono (Endonezya), İkincilik Ödülü: Reynerio Tamayo Fonseca (Kuba), Üçüncülik Ödülü: Norbert Van Yperzeele (Belçika). Mansyon Ödülleri: Konstantin Kazanchev (Ukrayna), Oleksy Kustovsky (Ukrayna). Özel Ödül: Halit Kurtulmuş Aytoslu (Türkiye).

Yarışmaların sergisi Yaşar Üniversitesi'nde açıldı. Sergi açılışı esnasında yarışmaların albümü tüm katılımcılara dağıtıldı.

BİRİNCİLİK ÖDÜLÜ: İKHSAN DWIONO (ENDONEZYA)

What is Akram Raslan's Status?

ROBERT RUSSELL [*]

■ Since this most recent posting there have been reports that Akram is alive, others claiming otherwise. We hope it is the former. CRNI is working every day with a number of sources to verify that he is alive and relatively well.

[10/20/2013] Here There Be Dragons: Akram Raslan's situation unclear.

We've learned that on July 26, 2013 Akram Raslan and other prisoners of conscience including journalists, artists, singers and other intellectuals were secretly put on trial with no witnesses, no defense attorneys, no appeal, and no hope for justice. From unconfirmed and sketchy reports we also learned that they were all condemned to life imprisonment.

Another rash of unconfirmed reports later said that young 28-year-old Akram Raslan and possibly others, were then secretly executed. Very recent reports say that he is certainly alive.

Akram Raslan was the winner of the Cartoonists Rights Network International, Award for Courage in Editorial Cartooning for 2013. Past award winners have hailed from Malaysia, South Africa, Turkey, Palestine, Iran, and India, including last year's winner, Ali Ferzat, also from Syria.

Here in the United States we are experts in the knowledge that editorial cartooning is a dying art. In other areas of the world, however, it is an art that people die for.

CRNI has been monitoring and assisting political cartoonists in trouble for the last 21 years. They are often victims of failing regimes stamping out criticism, drug cartels squashing investigations, corporate interest protecting money and political manipulation, and religious zealots stamping out thinking.

About nine months ago young Akram Raslan was abducted from the offices of his newspaper and "disappeared" into the Syrian dictator Bashir al-Assad's prisons for the next six months. Readers might remember the case of Syrian cartoonist Ali Ferzat who in 2011 had his hands broken by the Syrian regime's thugs. As they finished the job they told Ali that his broken hands would prevent him from disrespecting their master through his cartoons. Ali Ferzat was lucky. He survived the beating and eventually found safe haven in another Middle Eastern country. His revenge was to live to draw again.

The hue and cry over this attack that grew from the world's journalists and cartoonists must have made an impression on Bashir al-Assad. This time, perhaps a beating wasn't enough.

We learned in late May that Akram would be part of a show trial where he would be charged with various crimes including sedition and disrespecting the head of state. The only evidence against him was his Facebook posted cartoons encouraging people to laugh at the dictator. After his abduction, CRNI wrote a letter to the Syrian Ambassador in Washington, DC asking for his intervention in having Akram released. We quickly learned that Akram's trial would be postponed. We breathed a sigh of relief until we learned that instead of being released additional charges of being a spy for the CIA and for Israel had been leveled against him.

Mark Twain once said, "Against the assault of laughter, nothing can stand." Our social scientists and our humorists will argue for the next hundred years about the mechanics and effects of laughter on human behavior. But one thing that Akram's apparent death has demonstrated above all else, is how frightened the terrorists, the despots and the religious zealots are of people laughing at them. Tyrants might be able to fight off criticism or an insurrection or even assassination attempt with truncheons, bullets and terror. But where do they turn their guns to stop their people from laughing at them? Can there be any more efficient, more powerful, and cost-effective way of empowering a people than dispelling their fears with a courageous cartoon on its way to letting them laugh through their fear?

It could be that Akram made a grave mistake in not running away sooner, or toning down the cartoons that he posted on his Facebook page. When I asked one of our past Award winners, Malaysian cartoonist Zunar, why he didn't take these avoidance actions in his own case, he faced me squarely and indignantly said, "This is my country. These tyrants have no more right to be here than I do." We are lucky here in the United States to have a long list of honorable, intelligent and articulate humorists who every day labor to pry open our heads and fill us with the courage to face our fears and prejudices. We are lucky that an effective rule of law protects them.

Within the quagmire that has overtaken Syria and its people, it's difficult to know if right and wrong are even discernible any longer. It is difficult to tell reliable information from clever disinformation. Through the lives of people like Akram Raslan we are taught that it's not only the soldier in the heat of battle who must be called upon to exhibit courage.

We will continue to add to and edit this ongoing story as new information becomes available and verifiable.

SYRIAN CARTOONIST YOUSSEF ABDELKE ARRESTED

CRNI has just learned that another Syrian cartoonist, Youssef Abdelke, was arrested on Thursday, 18 July 2013 along with two other friends at a security barrier outside the coastal city of Tartus, Syria. He is one of the most revered and respected of all the senior cartoonists in Syria. While the regime has been imprisoning intellectuals such as writers, artists, cartoonists, even musicians and singers, the arrest of Abdelke marks a new low for the Bashir al-Assad regime. Recent attacks on cartoonists include Ali Ferzat who was beaten and had his hands broken on August 25, 2011, and cartoonist Akram Raslan who remains incomunicado and under arrest. Raslan was given CRNI's 2013 Award for Courage in Editorial Cartooning on June 29, 2013.

Abdelke was one of the original 100 signatories of a document called Principles of the Revolution in 2011. The document called for the removal of Pres. Bashir al-Assad and his senior ministers along with the establishment of an interim government under the supervision of the United Nations. Like other artists and intellectuals imprisoned by the Bashir al-Assad regime, Abdelke is afforded no contact with his family and is denied access to legal representation. It is not clear what the specific charges against him might be.

Abdelke's friends and family along with intellectuals and artists around the world have joined a Facebook campaign calling for his release. The Facebook page contains letters of support, news postings and a petition which already has more than 1,500 signatures. Abdelke was born in 1951 and has a degree from the faculty of fine arts in Damascus. He has a Doctorate degree from a university in France.

He lived in self exile in Paris for nearly two decades before deciding to return to Syria in 2005. He comes from a prominent dissident family, his father having been interred by the Syrian authorities in the 1960s and 1970s. Abdelke is a member of the Syrian Communist Labor Party and was also incarcerated from 1978 to 1980.

You can read more about his arrest at VOA and view his online gallery on Facebook.

KARIKATÜRCÜLER DERNEĞİ BAŞKANLIĞINA İPOTEK KOYDU!

"Karikatürcüler Derneği yönetim kurulunda Metin Peker 13 dönemlik (2014 dahil) başkanlık görevi ile dernek kurucularını bile geride bıraktı..."

Karikatürcüler Derneği kurucu üyelerinin içinde Semih Balcioğlu (1969, 1970, 1971, 1972, 1978, 1993, 1994) 7 dönem başkan olarak dikkat çekerken, diğer kurucu üyelerden Turhan Selçuk (1973, 1975, 1980) üç dönem ve Ferit Öngören ise 1974 yılında olmak üzere sadece bir dönem başkanlık yapmış görünüyor...

Değerli Üstadımızın, başkanlığınızın son genel kurulda tüzük değişikliği ile önümüzdeki yıl da (2014) başkanlığı kesinleşmiş durumda...

Derneğin kuruluş tarihi olan 1969'dan bu yana 44 yıl geçmiş. Bu 44 yılın ilk 33 yılında (1980-85 arası 12 Eylül darbe yönetimince derneklerin kapatıldığı dönemi de göz önünde bulundurursak) başkan olarak 14 farklı isim görev yapmışken son 11 yılında tek bir ismin hiç değişmeksızın başkan olması dikkat çekici bir başarı sayılabilir aslında. Bu Türk karikatür tarihinde ileride çok yönlü bir araştırma konusu olabilecek ve hakkında kitabı yazılabilen gerçek bir başarı öyküsüdür, kim ne derse desin...

Sayın başbakanımız Tayyip Erdoğan'ın iktidarlık süreciyle ortak bir kaderi paylaştı. Sayın Metin Peker'in, başbakanımız gibi hedefinin daha uzun yıllar sağılıkla, afiyetle ve hizmet aşkıyla ve de demokrasının gereği olarak iktidarda kalma ihtimalinin yüksek olduğunu söylemek yanlış olmaz sanırız. Gerçi son 5 yıldır, her genel kurul sonrası yakın çevresindekilere "bu yıl artık son" dese de karikatür sevgisinin ağır bastığını ve bir de alternatif olmadığını düşünürsek, onu anlayabiliriz.

Öte yandan Sayın Peker'in, neredeyse ömrünü feda ettiği bu kutsal görevde uzun yıllar kırılamayacak bir rekorla tarihe geçtiği gerçeğini de göz ardı edemeyiz. Kutlamak gerek elbette... Milli iradeye saygılarımızla.

Karikatürcüler Derneği'nde bugüne kadar başkanlık görevi yapanlar ve dönemleri aşağıda:

Semih Balcioğlu: 1969, 1970, 1971, 1972, 1978, 1993, 1994.

THE 13TH AWARD FOR COURAGE IN EDITORIAL CARTOONING FOR 2013

The 13th Award for Courage in Editorial Cartooning for 2013 Salt Lake City, Utah.

This year's Award for Courage in Editorial Cartooning was presented at a ceremony at the Little America Hotel in Salt Lake City, Utah USA on June 29, 2013 Dr. Robert "Bro" Russell and his wife Hemamalie arrived in Salt Lake City to attend the annual convention of the Association of American Editorial Cartoonists on June 26. Every year the CRNI award is coordinated with the AAEC convention.

As has happened more than once recently, the award winner could not be present to accept in person. In fact, we have never spoken with the cartoonist nor do we have any direct connection with him or his family.

Our Board's decision to give Akram Raslan this year's award for Courage in Editorial Cartooning has been based solely on reports from other nongovernmental organizations.

According to these sources cartoonist Akram Raslan is still in prison somewhere in Syria. Apparently, he had been due to go to court on June 3 of this year to answer charges of sedition and insulting the integrity of the state of Syria. We know little about his present whereabouts or his condition.

Some of the notables of the convention were the dean of American cartoonists Pat Oliphant and writer and editor Victor Saul Navasky, past publisher of The Nation and currently professor and chairman of the Columbia Journalism Review. Other notables included Utah Sen. Bob Bennett and Joe Wos, the curator of the Toonseum in Pittsburgh Pennsylvania. Alan Gardner creator and publisher of The Daily Cartoonist gave a presentation and Todd Zuniga, founding editor of Opium Magazine and cofounder of the Literary Death Match. He turned the literary death match into the cartoon death match for one of the sessions venued at a bar in Salt Lake City. No one was killed but neither were there any prisoners.

As part of the run-up to the convention, and in order to inform the public in Salt Lake City of CRNI's award ceremony Bro sent an Op Ed piece the Salt Lake Tribune which was published in its Friday, June 28, 2013 edition. Titled "Political Cartoonists Paying a Heavy Price", the piece briefed the public on the plight of Akram Raslan and so many other cartoonists in trouble.

During the three days of the convention Bro and Hemamalie were able to meet very briefly would Pat Oliphant reminding him that he has been a CRNI

Board of Director member, and how much we appreciate him lending his credibility and his name to our mission. Bro also had a meeting with

Victor Navasky who was a panelist, talking about the pressures and influences from religious sources on cartooning. He was also there to discuss his new book, The Art of Controversy. Victor had referred to

Cartoonists Rights Network International twice in his book. The book presents a recent history of cartoonists who have had their pens stilled by either violence or legal attacks by those religious, political and social elements who abhor free speech.

Salt Lake Tribune cartoonist Pat Bagley was this year's host for the AAEC convention, and current AAEC president Matt Wuerker of politico.com was a cohost for the Saturday evening Cartoons and Cocktails Gala.

This year the AAEC organizers finished the convention with a Gala dinner and cartoon auction in the ballroom of the little America hotel. Attended by about 150 guests, one of Pat Bagley's cartoons was auction for a neat $3000. The proceeds of both a live and the silent auction will go to the AAEC's charitable wing to help carry out the AAEC's social programs.

At the same time the Locher award was given to the best cartoonists working for a college newspaper. This year's winner was Kara Yasui, a student at UCLA. She is the first woman to win the Loche award.

The AAEC Ink Bottle award was presented to R.C. Harvey. R.C. is a contributor to the Oxford University press and in 1994 his book the Art of the Funnies was published by the Universal Press of Mississippi. RC Harvey has been a friend to the AAEC for generations, advising a succession of AAEC leaders. The Ink Bottle award is given to the person who has contributed the most to cartooning in the United States during that year.

CRNI's Dir. Robert Russell was last year's winner, having collected his award at the AAEC's annual convention in Washington DC.

During the Gala, Bro Russell was invited to come to the front of the hall and present our annual Award for Courage in Editorial Cartooning. Because Akram Raslan could not be present, bro asked the convention host Pat Bagley to accept award on his behalf. You can read Bro's comments below.

While time and circumstances do not allow for a long presentation, one thank you that Bro made was to the Doha Center for Media Freedom which contributed generously to this year's award ceremony. As well the Herb Block Foundation also contributed as they usually do to this year's award ceremony.

Bro also thanked Rob Rogers, this year's Thomas Nast award winner, for contributing his award money to CRNI.

During Pat Oliphant's drawing demonstration Bro was able to come up and say hello. The group took a field trip to the Natural History Museum of Utah, where Arizona Republic cartoonist Steve Breen gave a drawing demonstration to group of children.

There is some wild goings-on at the Cartoonist Death Match organized by Todd Zuniga at the Tavernacle Piano Bar in downtown Salt Lake. Signe Wilkinson, Lalo, Steve Benson, and Ted Rall all competed for first place in the kind of cartoon shoot out.

MEKTUP-LETTER-MEKTUP-LETTER-MEKTUP-LETTER-

Dear Colleague Huseyin Cakmak, greetings...

I am sorry that you have been intimidated by the organizers of the world press cartoon. You have not posted my response in your magazine, perhaps because Mr. Antunez said of his lawyer.

I also was threatened by the Antunez's lawyer, two years ago, but I'm fighting for my right to collect my prize.

Remember, friend, that freedom of speech is a human right. And Yeni Akrep is a magazine that should support the free expression of the cartoonists.

Thank you for your support in previous editions, and I ask you to consider my request and publish my response to wpc, which is short.

With best regards,

Freddy Pibaque. (20.05.2013)

FREDDY PIBAQUE

WORLD PRESS CARTOON CAN NOT PROVE THAT IT PAID PRIZE

Dear Friend Huseyin Cakmak,

I see in the last edition of Yeni Akrep a very long information sent by Antonio Antunez (AA) of world press cartoon, Sintra, Portugal. This time he uses Mr. Dagger ("Punal" in Spanish means dagger).

Too much space in his magazine, and too long time lose wpc to try to justify not paying me my prize. I will refute without taking up much space..

Says a piece of information: "The 3rd of December, a transfer order of 1285 Euros was issued to our bank (end legal value after taxes in the European Union, in the terms of the regulation, and after the reimbursement of the e-ticket costs?)".

But AA DOES NOT SAY THAT HIS DEPOSIT WAS REJECTED BY THE BANK.

I have a copy of the AA's message where he told me that. Another tendentious and malicious statement of AA (or his dagger?): "6. THEREFORE, the money Should be now (in Colombia) in the account of FP's friend..."

If the bank rejected the deposit of Mr. AA, it is impossible that the money is in Colombia.

Mr. AA does not say that I repeatedly asked him to send me a travel check, but he refused saying that he was very expensive.

He says that I claim my 2006 catalogue, but not, I claim my catalogue of the 2007 version that I win a prize. He mentioned the trophy, but not the cartoon catalogue that he do not send me. Of course in their calculations he does discounts for the value of the catalogue shipping and the shipping cost of the trophy.

BUT THESE DISCOUNTS ARE NOT IN THE REGULATION OF wpc. Also, he has not even sent me the catalog nor the trophy. And so he reduced my prize from 2,500 Euros to just 1285 euros. WITH ILEGAL DISCOUNTS.

The cost of flights for the prize winners is paid by sponsors. Finally, why spend so much time writing both Mr. AA and wpc group?. Simply they can send a copy of the deposit, accepted by the bank, and so demonstrate that they paid. It's what do the serious contests, instead of sending letters from their lawyers to intimidate a magazine that allows freedom of expression of the cartoonists.

Do you know why Mr. AA does not send the copy of the bank deposit? BECAUSE HE NEVER DID IT!

Therefore, HE NEVER PAID THE CARTOON AWARD WON IN WPC 2007.

Greetings, colleague Huseyin, and thanks for your support. (Winner of the wpc unpaid prize).

CARTOONIST LESLIE CHEW IN SINGAPORE GETS SLAMMED

[09/25/2013] On a recent trip to Singapore, CRNI annual award winner Malaysian cartoonist Zunar (Zulkiflee Anwar Ulhaque) met with and interviewed Singaporean cartoonist Leslie Chew. According to an August 6 article in the Wall Street Journal, "Mr. Chew had been under police investigation since April for potential wrongdoing in several cartoons he drew for his Facebook comic strip, titled "Demon-cratic Singapore," which he describes as a "totally fictional comic." The strip has over 27,400 followers on Facebook."

The Wall Street Journal piece continued to say, "Police arrested Mr. Chew on April 19 and questioned him over alleged sedition after a citizen filed a police complaint against the cartoonist for certain comic strips that the person said were racially insensitive. These cartoons are not the same ones as those deemed to be in contempt of court."

The following is the interview that Zunar conducted with Leslie on July 31, 2013.

Singaporean cartoonist, Leslie Chew, was facing the risk of jail time when the government charged him with 'Contempt of Court' for his comics. The government had decided that his comic humor undermined the judiciary system.

In December 2012, the Attorney General's Chambers (AGC) had sent an email demanding an apology over one cartoon. Leslie had refuse to apologize for that cartoon. This led to the AGC presenting 5 cartoons to court for the latest contempt proceeding. However, the court rejected the AGC request to proceed with the one they had demanded an apology for. "It is clear from this that the AGC will unreasonably threaten to sue even if they have no ground in the first place," said Leslie.

According to Leslie, the writ from the AGC on the 25th July 2013 stated that four of his cartoons had questioned differential treatment in cases by the judiciary based on status of nationality and political affiliation.

According to his Lawyer, M. Ravi, the "Contempt Of Court" charge, if found guilty, carries the penalty of two months imprisonment and SD20,000 (US $15,759 fine).

At present, the case has been withdrawn by the AGC after Leslie posted an apology on his facebook page on 6th August 2013 and deleted the 4 comics in question.

Leslie said, "I think (the charge) is not fair. This is the first time they have any issue with these four comics. Surely a warning letter would suffice? Does it warrant dragging an ordinary citizen to court just because his point of view might not be the same as the authorities?"

Leslie, 37 started publishing cartoons almost daily on his facebook page since May 2011. With "Democratic" as a tagline, the web-based comic has attracted over 28,000 followers to date. His cartoons question government policies - a rarity for artists in Singapore.

For Leslie, this is not the first time he had come face to face with the authorities. On 19th of April this year he was detained and locked up for two days under the Sedition Act for criticizing the state's discrimination against the minorities in separate cartoons.

He was arrested at his parents' house, and during the raid ten plain-clothed policemen not only confiscated his computer, hard disk and cell phone, he was also asked to surrender his passport. Personal computers and hard disks belonging to his father were not spared either.

The Sedition Act carries a maximum penalty of three years imprisonment and a fine of SD5,000 (US $3,939) if found guilty. However the government later withdrew the charge.

"I was interrogated for over 30 hours and placed under island arrest for 3 months and have to report for bail extension 6 times during that period." Leslie said, "and now that they have dropped the sedition charge, does it mean that what is stated in my comic is true? Had they made a wrongful arrest? If so, I'd expect the authorities to at least have the decency to apologize for all the inconvenience and distress they have caused me, my family and my friends. But sadly, this is Singapore, and common decency from them is probably the last thing anyone can expect."

In a meeting with Leslie and his lawyer in one of the restaurants in Singapore's "Little India", Leslie, declined to be photographed. "I don't need the limelight, let my work speaks for itself," he said.

He started his conversation by envisioning how most Singaporeans live in fear.

He was hoping that his cartoons could be the remedy to the shackles that the citizens are living in. "If you can laugh at what you fear, you can't very well fear it for much longer," says the cartoonist whose real name is Chew Peng Ee.

VLADIMIR KAZANEVSKY

We can expect that the number of "repetitions" in cartoons will increase.

In the past decade we have witnessed a wave of "repetitions", i.e. there have been a lot of cartoons that rip off other artists' ideas. Lets try to uncover the reasons behind this phenomenon. Consider three conditional characteristics, cartooning from the point of view of the visual images that constitute its "semantic content", the cartoonists methods of creating the "comic effect" and the philosophical, social and other messages the author intended for the viewer.

First, let's consider visual images. We cannot deny that the "semantic contents" of most caricatures are based on picturing familiar images that are also convenient at creating a "comic effect". These can be popular literary heroes: Don Quixote, Pinocchio, Robinson Crusoe and the Good Soldier Svejk; Biblical heroes: Noah, Jesus, Moses; cartoon and movie characters: Mickey Mouse, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Charlie Chaplin; famous paintings: "Mona Lisa" by Leonardo da Vinci, Rembrandt's "Return of the Prodigal Son" or Edvard Munch's "The Scream". Besides that, there are also some stereotypical situations "comfortable" for the cartoonist. So me of them are: a man on a deserted island, a truncheon blow from around the corner, a man in a desert, a lover in a wardrobe, etc. On the one hand, such images are familiar to the viewer and "comfortable" for the artist, on the other hand, they carry a potential explosive charge that, as Freud might have said, can be released by means of laughter. That is why almost all cartoonists, especially novices, employ the same visual images while working on a cartoon. Obviously, the number of these "comfortable" images is not unlimited.

The cartoonist's methods of creating "the comic effects" of cartoons are quite well-researched. We can say that this process is subject to certain laws, so different cartoonists employ the same methods. Comic art was described by S. Freud, A. Koestler, G. Fauconnier, M. Turner, D. Hofstadter, L. Gabara, S. Coulson, G. Sals, D. Owen... V. Raskin introduced The General Theory of Verbal Humour, which can be applied in cartoon analysis. Methods of creating cartoons are certainly almost entirely universal for artists all over the world.

Every cartoon is meant to attract attention to social problems, philosophical thoughts, political conflicts, etc. For example, nowadays, popular messages for cartoonists are: the problem of terrorism, the damaging effect of drugs, oil price increases, global warming, etc. All cartoonists, whether they want it or not, have to turn to the pressing problems of mankind.

Thus it's clear that, while drawing, most cartoonists resort to stereotypical familiar images, employ stereotypical methods and send stereotypical "popular" messages to the viewer. During the time of the introduction and rapid development of "new cartoon" art, artists have created myriads of drawings that can be called "primary works".

The aforementioned elements of creative processes lead to the creation of "secondary works" by young caricaturists.

VITTORIO PIZZALATO [*]

This year once again has arrived the moment to reap the harvest of a whole summer's task dedicated to Humour. Our exhibition "Humour in Gallarate - Grand Prix Marco Biassoni" has nearly come of age and, for its 17th birthdays has wanted to celebrate this with a topic which, above all in Italy has been debated and talked about so much, thanks also to the referendum which called us to vote in June.

Water, but not just water, because after careful meditation, we chose as the topic for the XVII edition of the International Cartoon Contest, the chemical symbol of water, H<sub>2</sub>O. Water is a primordial element, a source of life, a symbol of the sacred and the profane but which today in 2011, is a problem in so many countries in the world where a mere glass of water is a mirage, and where a great number of children, men and women die from the lack of it.

We have therefore chosen to grill humorists from all over the world, always more numerous, about a topic that could be rendered in different and original ways according to diverse traditions and cultures.

As always, this international interpretation has given us the possibility to discover new realities and to confront humour and its representation in the world, once again with the usual awareness that graphic humour is now a form of communication with its own particular dignity, where artists express themselves with expertise, skill and sarcasm. In this way they encourage us to reflect and smile, something very useful in present day times.

I would like to thank all those associations that have offered their collaboration to increase the importance of the exhibition over the years (the Town Council, the Province of Varese, FanoFunny, Anu). In addition I would like to underline that this initiative, born by chance but always supported with the voluntary work of members of the Pro Loco, has reached its goal to extend beyond national frontiers thus taking the name of Gallarate to every continent in the world.

The collaboration and increased attachment over the years have made the exhibition a regular appointment at top level, which we hope may arrive to come to age, counting more and more on the collaboration also of private support to enable Gallarate and its International contest to be talked about all over the world. Special thanks to Omar Alberto Figueroa Turcios and Nano Mosquera who have been with us and with their expertise have contributed to the contest.

HERE, EVERWHERE

Ready, get set, go.

Your are here.

Exactly at the beginning of this journey in the essay about the journey. Click the "start" button, Kindly approved by Guido Scarabottolo, to whom we have dedicated the Author's Salon.

The great maestro knows a thing or two, he knows the secret shape of trees, he travels through the sky by bicycle, he swims on the edge of the abysses, he explores worlds suspended between the earth and a dream. His works are like the nights in Emanglonia: light, sweet and inviting, you never know whether it is really time to go to bed. But now it is time to start. Click the start button, with your finger, with the mouse or with your nose if you want. You may set off in an adventure on board of the most imaginative means of transport: Becerra's bikeplane, Kazanevsky's para-eagle, Rollow's inflatable ship, Vedu's armchair with seatbelts, Grolik's front-back airplane, Mahmoudi's immobile and stern flying saucer, Origone's foamy blue cloud.

Leafing through the pages you will find curious companions for the journey: Pol Leurs's confident feathered Icarus and Yuri Kosobukin's torn and lost companion. Constantin Sunnerberg's young Goreyan boys, explorers of the cosmic hole. Yong Zhou's Moai on a trip to Stonehenge.

Some people drown in an inch of water, others fall down from the soles of their shoes.

You may possibly meet my elderly neighbour who every day faces a perilous trip towards the grocery store to buy milk and fresh bread. Yet she never gives up, she slowly sets one foot in front of the other, spasmodically clinging onto her cane like Tarzan to lianas. When I greet her she always proudly repeats the same sentence to me: "With these legs I can hardly get to the baker's but with my imagination I cross the threshold of Tannhauser."

The margin of the sheet of paper is approaching, it is time to go.

Each page will lead you to an imaginary reality, without going anywhere. Bon voyage.

6TH INTERNATIONAL BIG BOAT CARTOON CONTEST ALBUM - LODZ 2010

PIOTR KASINSKI

The Big Boat of Humour is an international cartoon contest. The idea came from Jakub Wiejacci from the Association of Artists 'Contur'.

The first edition of the Big Boat was held in 2006. The main idea of the project is to illustrate a famous paradox of the city of Lodz - the word 'Lodz' in Polish means 'a boat' and the city has a yellow boat in its crest. However, Lodz lies nowhere near the sea, a lake or any river. Every edition has also a different theme (2006: 'Lodz', 2007: 'To go over the horizon', 2008: 'Go fishing in a boat', 2009: 'City in reconstruction' and in 2010: 'City - a powder keg').

This year the organizers received over 100 works from all over the world - from Poland through the Czech Republic, Serbia, Romania, Belgium, Finland, Russia to Turkey, the USA, China, Brazil, Iran and Argentina. The submitted works were rated by a jury led by a famous Polish cartoonist Jerzy Wasiukiewicz. In the jury there were also Małgorzata Chojnacka from the City of Lodz, Piotr Kasinski from the Lodz Community Center and Tomasz Tomaszewski from the Association of Artists 'Contur'. The works were exhibited in September and October 2010 in the Promotion Office of the City of Lodz, during the 21. International Festival of Comics and Games.

The Grand Prix was given to Rumen Dragostinov from Bulgaria for his four work "untitled". The previous winners of the Big Boat of Humour Contest are Paweł Kuczynski (2006), Jacek Frackiewicz (2007), Zygmunt Zaradkiewicz (2008) and Jerzy Gluszek (2009).

The Big Boat of Humour is organized by the Association of Artists 'Contur', the city of Lodz and the Lodz Community Center.

We encourage everyone to participate in the 6th edition of the Big Boat of Humour. The rules, as usual, will soon be available on www.bigboatofhumour.com

YONA YAHAV [*]

Shalom, dear friends!

Close to a thousand cartoons were submitted this year by 420 artists from 61 countries to the International Cartoon Competition.

This is an exceptional cultural achievement of which we should be very proud. Guests of the International Cartoon Exhibition will certainly notice that the cartoon, as a sharp and direct tool, is intended not only to make you laugh, but also to serve as a symbol of freedom of expression, to express criticism, to serve as a mirror of society. And sometimes, as we have witnessed, one cartoon can change reality.

It is not by chance that the 16th International Cartoon Festival held in Haifa this year is devoted to the theme of "A Healthy Mind in a Healthy Body." Haifa is currently experiencing a tremendous momentum in the area of sports and health. At the city's southern entrance, a magnificent stadium - the most sophisticated one in Israel - is currently under construction, the sports center in the Romema neighborhood is being renovated, new parks were built, and open air fitness areas were established for use by the general public. Very soon we also intend to close off part of road 22 for cyclists every Saturday, and establish a new roller blade park next to the beach.

Two international competitions were recently held in the city - a sailing competition and a mountain bike competition. This, and more, with the intention of continuing to position Haifa as the sports and health capital of Israel.

I hope you all will enjoy the International Cartoon Festival. I would like to convey my thanks to the artists, the judges, the producers, and all those who were involved in ensuring the success of the Competition and Exhibition, which

The international cartoon competition and the exhibition "Brain Sneezing from kalokagathia to hypochondria and back" continue the tradition that started in the town of Presov 30 years ago.

"Brain Sneezing" as well as the cartoon competition "Golden Keg" provide the space for the presentation of the authors from all over the world and at the same time represent the culture of Presov and of the entire Slovakia. This year the idea of European cooperation has been supported also thanks to the participation of V4 countries - the Czech Republic, Poland, Hungary and Slovakia. Moreover, the Ukraine has been invited to join, too.

The collections of humour cartoons have been displayed in the towns of Nowy Targ, Presov, Uzhhorod and Berehovo.

We believe that both competition and exhibition will inspire also new authors, who have been searching for the Muse of Smiles.

THE CROATIAN CARTOONIST ASSOCIATION EXHIBIT IN İSTANBUL

On Saturday, October 5, the Croatian Cartoonist Association exhibit was opened in the city center of Istanbul presenting the Croatian cartoon. It is the follow-up of the Croatian cartoon presentation in the world which started two years ago in Norway and was continued last year with an exhibit in Saint Just Le Martel in France.

There were about 60 guests at the opening (most of whom were Turkish cartoonists) and among them there were Amir Muharemi, Consul General of Croatia in Istanbul and the director of libraries and muzeums of İstanbul metropolitan municipality Ramazan Minder, who opened the exhibit together with Metin Peker, the president of the Turkish Cartoonists' Association and Davor Trgovcic, the president of the Croatian Cartoon Association.

An arrangement was made with the friendly hosts from the Turkish Cartoonists' Association to have an exhibit in Croatian presenting Turkish cartoon which should take place in 2014.

At the exhibit were present Davor Trgovcic, the president of the Croatian Cartoon Association, Zdenko Puhin, General Secretary and Milan Lekic, the Vice President, who thrilled the guests with his blitz portrait cartoons which most of the guests got as a present.
